1985

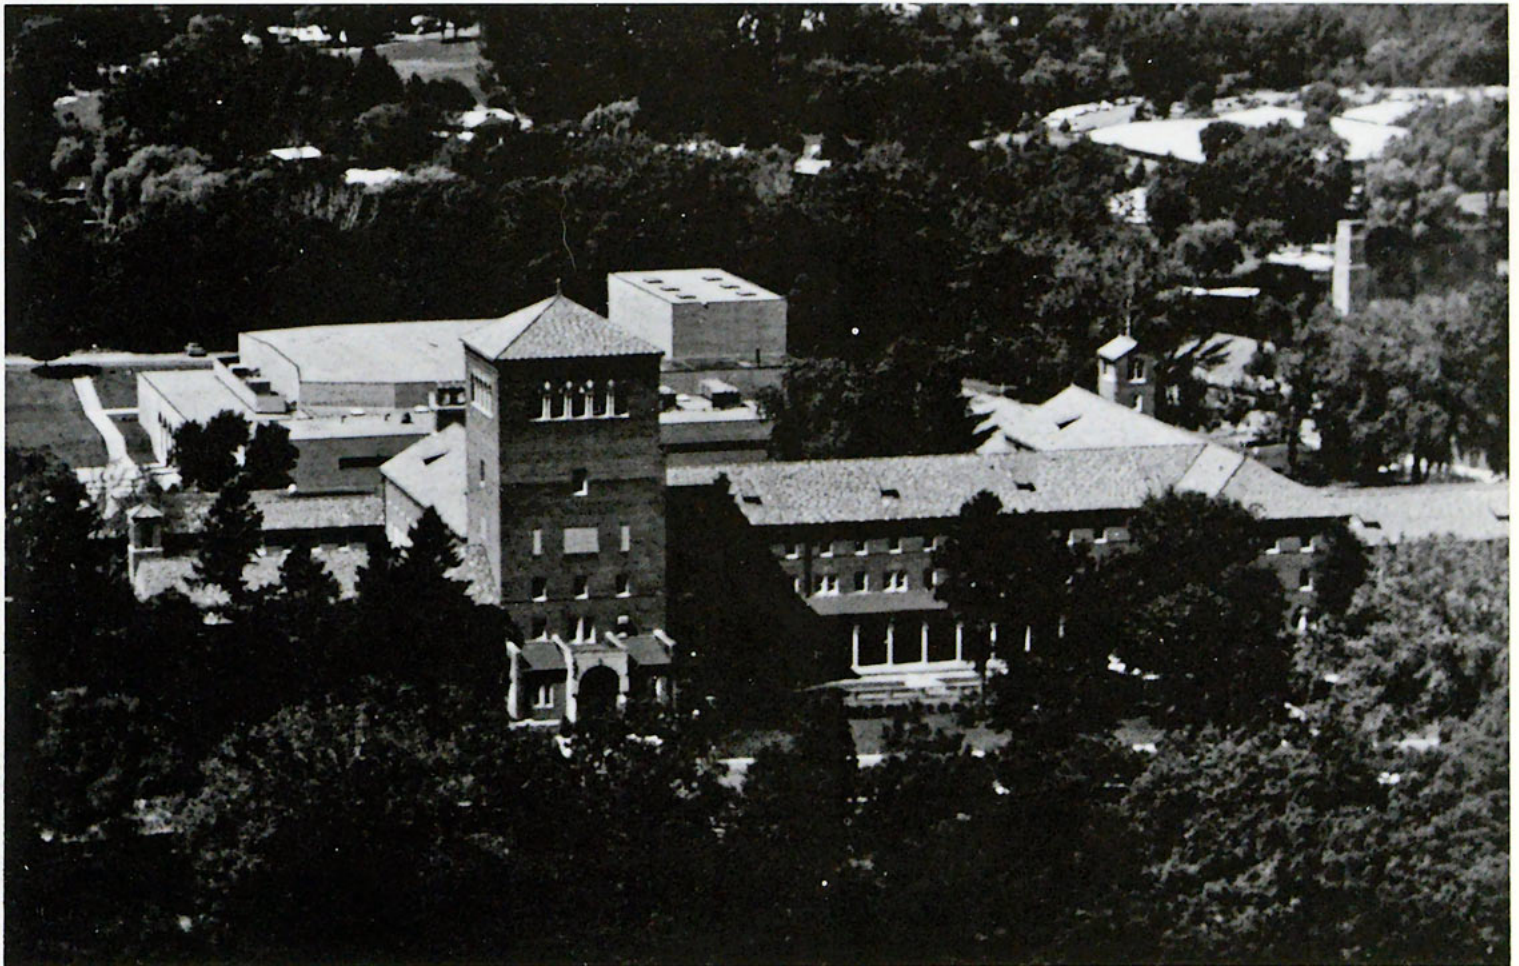

Founded in 1902 as a missionary training school, Northwestern College had its beginnings in a Baptist Church in Minneapolis. Its goal was to prepare Christians for full-time service and to remain faithful to the teachings of the Bible.

God honored that commitment, and by 1947 the school grew to include a seminary, a liberal arts college, and a conservatory of music. Three years later it became an accredited Bible College. Today Northwestern offers training in a variety of disciplines and remains true to its original purpose.

One man who played a prominent role in the growth of Northwestern is Dr. William B. Berntsen. He has devoted his life to the training of Christian young people, first as a teacher, and then as president of the college. Even through times of struggle and seemingly impossible situations, President "B" fought to keep the vision alive. Today the school we know as Northwestern College exists largely because of the faith and persistence of this man.

In December of 1984, Dr. Berntsen resigned from the presidency after 18 years of service and was appointed to the office of chancellor. As a symbol of our appreciation for everything he has done, we dedicate the 1985 Scroll to our beloved "Mr. B."

As students at Northwestern College, we are part of the continuing legacy. We have set aside this part of our lives for a time of concentrated learning and training.

Our education serves a two-fold purpose. First, it is to help us to mature and become responsible as members of God's family. Second, it is to prepare us to become a positive influence on our world.

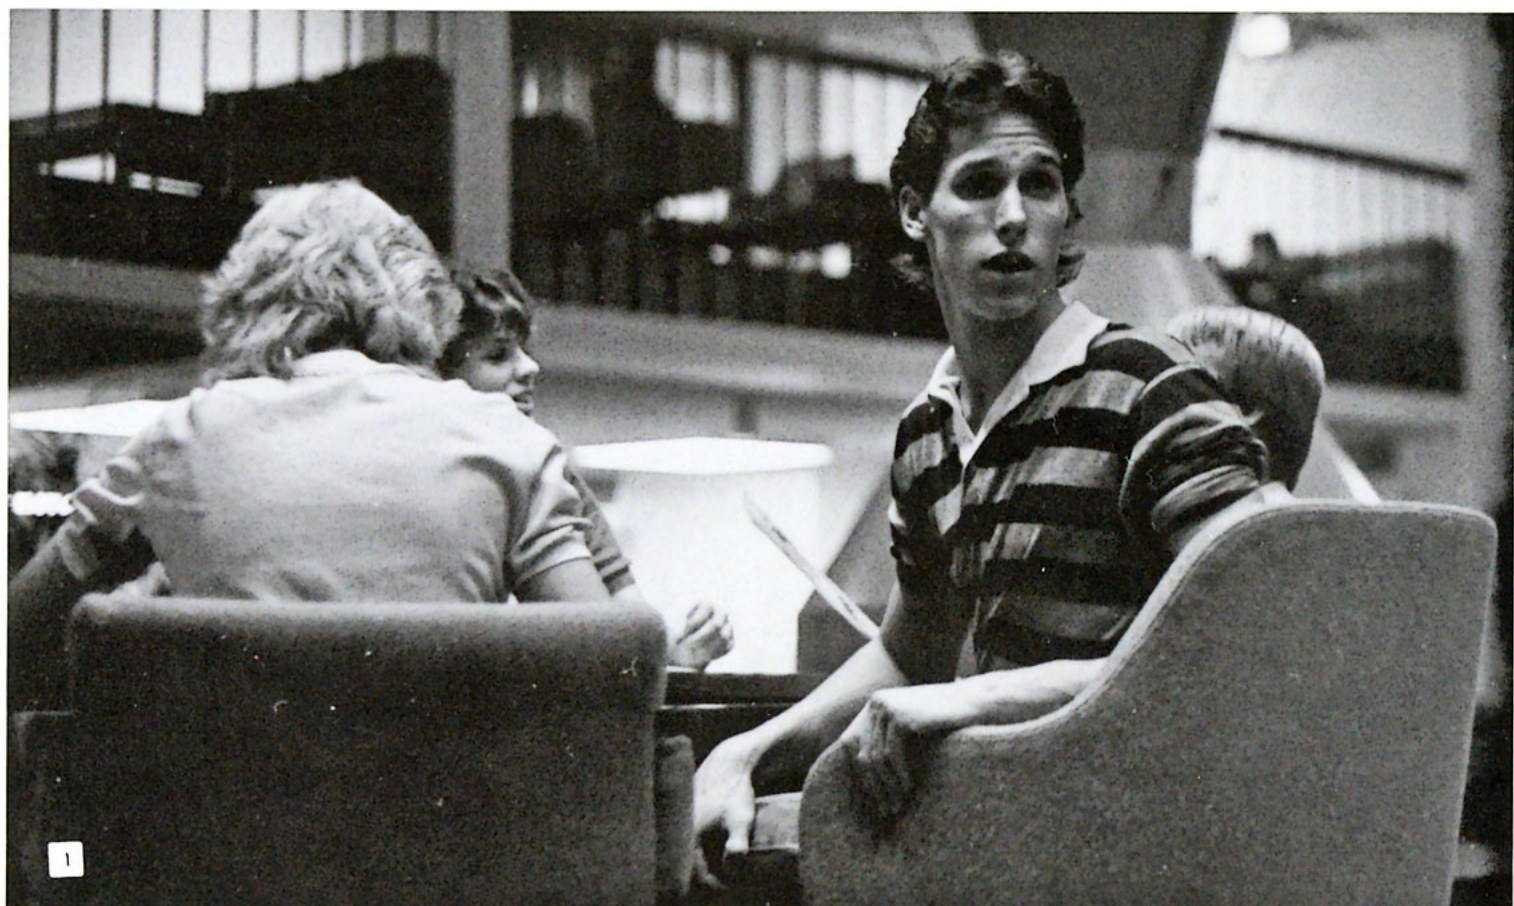

However, even in the environment of a Christian college, growth is a matter of choice. How much we learn is determined by how teachable we are. Similarly, the extent to which we affect our community is determined by the amount of effort we invest.

May we be "good stewards" of our education and training by making them a part of our lifestyles.

Homecoming

Highlighted by the crowning of Kirsten Broman as Miss Northwestern and a 53-0 victory over Pillsbury for the football team, October 15-20 brought another week of annual Homecoming activities.

Students displayed their spirit throughout the week by dressing creatively. Twin Day and Polyester Plaid Day involved especially enthusiastic participation.

On Friday evening, Carpenter's Workshop provided moving entertainment for a Blue Room student banquet. The meal was followed by a mellow Brown Bannister concert in Maranatha Hall and late-night skating at Saints-Rosedale.

1984 Upper Midwest Conference Champions

The 1984 football season is one that will be remembered for a long time by coaches, players and fans. This year's team, led by captains Kevin Burns, David Quebodeaux and Jim Spock, proved to be a very enthusiastic squad. Encouragement among the players proved to be a big part in the team's successful season, with twins Wayne and Jim Straub providing the greatest amount of it.

The Eagles started the season with a victory over Augsburg and went on to win 7 out of their 9 season games, (the second best record in the 12 years of NWC Football.) Their biggest defeat was handed to them by Lomas College, and their biggest victory was the upset of Pillsbury with a score of 53-0.

Northwestern finished the season with an unblemished 6-0 conference record, and clinched the Upper Midwest Conference Championship by defeating a pesky Mt. Senario team 23-21.

Team Makes a Name

Virtually unknown until this fall, Northwestern's soccer team finally made a name for itself nationally. They ranked third in the nation with an 11-3 record and were awarded All-American Honors. Bill Schobrich, Tim Montzka and Lee Nyquist also received All-District and All-Conference honors.

With a majority of the team members returning next year, Coach Bill Crawford can expect another successful season. For now, the "Bobs" are training in California, so the National Championship is just a let-terbuck away.

In NCCAA competition, at Cedarville, Ohio, Lynette placed ninth, winning Division I All-American honors.

Also turning in good performances at conference competition were Carol Hagel, Pam Mayhak, Lois Reseland, Ann Sanderson, and Joy Schreifels. The team placed third overall in the conference.

Throughout the year, they placed high at their meets, with Lynette and Carol running at each other's heels. At the Hamline Invitational, each member turned in a personal best time.

Beyond the Books

Free time. When asked about this important aspect of college life, one student joked, "Free time, what's that?" Although studying was a big part of life at Northwestern, contrary to popular belief, students did do more than just study.

Topping the list of spare time activities was spending time with friends and eating. However, more constructive activities, such as jobs, inter-collegiate and intramural sports, organizations, growth groups and involvement in local churches, also occupied student's time.

■ 1. Mealtime proves to be a good time for being with friends. ■ 2. A busy schedule forced this student to catch a few winks between classes. ■ 3. Aerobics is one way to stay in shape at school. ■ 4. P.O. boxes are a popular place to gather, as shown by Janet Townsend, Sarah Ruckelshausen, Janet Tremper, and Sam Taylor. ■ 5. Sharon Weller knows that practice makes perfect.

Variety of Talents

This year at Northwestern, we had a variety of concerts to say the least. The talents and acts of the singers were also varied. Brown Bannister, although mellow and spiritual, had his otherwise interesting points such as tripping over a microphone cord. He also sang a lullaby to the newest addition to the Wendler family, a baby girl.

Truth, much like Brown Bannister, was interesting in that its songs were varied from soft spiritual to hard Christian contemporary. Bill Greenwood sang his songs by himself with no backup except for his personal accompaniment of piano or a very interesting guitar. He also imitated some TV shows like Leave it to Beaver and Star Trek in his own unique fashion.

Steve Archer was probably the singer that the students of Northwestern enjoyed the most. His sidekick really added to the show with his excellent ability to play the synthesizer and keyboard. Steve was very funny with his many facial expressions and jokes and he also had a very good spiritual message. At one point he sang a duet with one of the student body's favorite singers, Julie Ann Beckman.

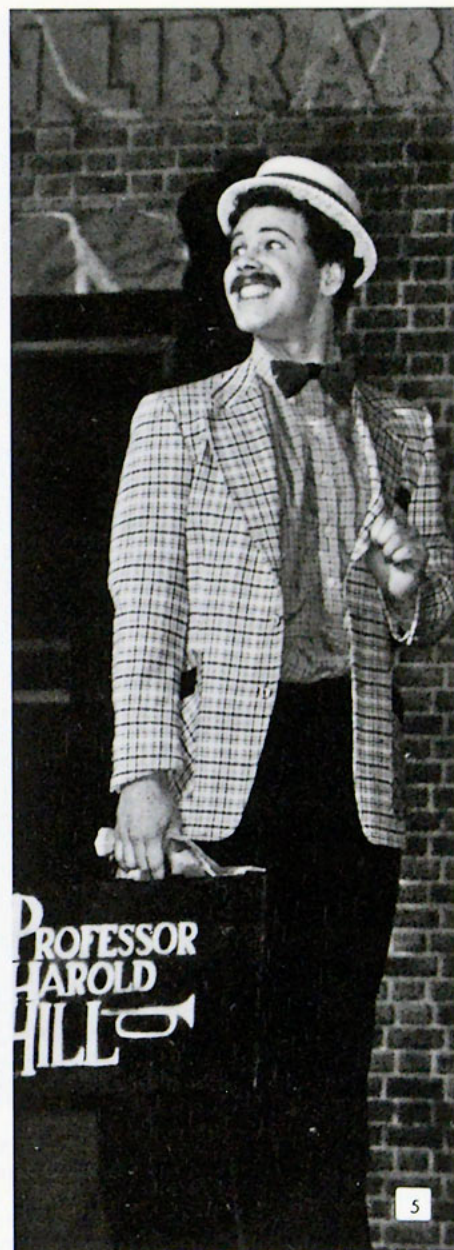

Music Man

The Music Man, a popular musical by Meredith Wilson, proved to be a successful production for Northwestern College this year. Performed on two consecutive weekends in November, the play was directed by Carol Thomas-Johnson, assisted by music director Bryan Dobson.

The story, set in River City, Iowa, tells about Harold Hill, a dishonest salesman falling in love with the town's librarian, Marian Paroo. Brian Goldenman and Rachel Silrum brought the leading roles to life, along with a cast of approximately 45.

"I thought the music was terrific and the cast did an outstanding job," Bonnie Beemis enthused. "They put a lot of effort into it."

■ 1. Singing, "Till there was you," Brian Goldenman and Rachel Silrum rehearse the romantic footbridge scene. ■ 2. Marcellas Washburn gives Harold Hill a respectful salute. ■ 3. As school board members-turned-barbershop quartet, Kerry Liebelt, Tom Dods, Steve Holmgren and Rob Osterland, practice harmonizing. ■ 4. Seemingly engrossed in his paper, Harold Hill listens as the other traveling salesmen discuss his reputation. ■ 5. Harold Hill sets out to conquer stubborn River City. ■ 6. "You really ought to give Iowa a try!" invite the River City citizens. ■ 7. After two years of brooding over his father's death, Winthrop finally talks — to Harold Hill.

■ 1. Carolers Steve Paris, Norma Foiles, Brian Goldenman, and Susan Smallidge add to the festive atmosphere with their holiday attire. ■ 2. The College Choir sings an old poem, "Jesus Christ the Apple Tree." ■ 3. "We wish you a Merry Christmas," sings Colleen Weekley, Kerry Leibelt, Dawn Johanson and Daryl Timmer as they serenade banquet guests. ■ 4. Choir member Dave Braun joins the orchestra for part of the concert. ■ 5. Awaiting her cue, Julie Reinhold grips her handbells.

Christmas Gala

The Christmas festivities this year were launched by the traditional Gala banquets. At the banquets, quartets of carolers wore costumes representing different eras in history, and sang a variety of Christmas carols.

The highlight of this year's gala, however, was the presentation of the Christmas concert, "In the Fullness of Time." The dynamic concert was performed three nights, two of which were completely sold out. Its huge success was made possible through the collaboration of almost 200 persons involved. The Concert Choir, Male Chorus, and Chorale were accompanied by a full orchestra, with the decorations and handbell choir adding a special touch in helping to create the Christmas mood.

Spiritual Life

Other college students might have wrinkled their noses at the idea of "forced" spirituality, and we too may have sometimes wondered if chapels were more boring than blessing, but spiritual life at NWC was much deeper.

Chapels allowed students to voluntarily participate in planning, musical performance, and sharing. Spiritual activities on campus also included student-initiated groups such as Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Sing and Share, Growth Groups, and weekly prayer groups. Many students volunteered their time and energy to Christian service activities.

■ 1. Cory Stern, Julie Strand and Chuck Knutson provide special music in chapel. ■ 2. John LaBarre and Jennifer Yaeger talk after Sing and Share. ■ 3. Andrea Nickel reads along with the chapel speaker.

■ 1. Treading carefully, Mrs. Bonita Ericksen wades through the balloons which mysteriously deluged her office. ■ 2. Mrs. Jeannine Sachs comes to chapel prepared for Sno Daze. ■ 3. Making their rounds, Dr. and Mrs. BeVier sample the girls' cooking at the student residence Open House, while Rhoda Balzer and Julie Bleadorn guard the food against marauding students.

Looking Ahead

Women's basketball endured a rough year yet still managed to strive for excellence throughout the season as they aimed to please the Lord both on and off the court.

Coach Dan Smith and the several women who will return to the squad next year view the upcoming season with eager anticipation.

Northwestern finished third in the Upper Midwest Conference.

Wrestling

This year's wrestling team, coached by Bruce Bulman and Dean Almquist, had quite a successful season in spite of all the injuries sustained by the wrestlers. At times the lack of wrestlers hindered the team's performance as a whole, but each wrestler tried to perform at his peak.

The Eagles participated in several tournaments this season as well. The Rochester Open proved to be a highlight performance for Mark Fugleberg. He won 5-2 against an opponent who weighed well over 250 lbs. At our own Northwestern Invitational, Sam Taylor, captain of this year's team, had a good showing by finishing 2nd in his class. Great improvement was shown by all of the wrestlers because of the hard work and conditioning.

Cheerleaders Add Life

This year's cheerleading squad was very busy. Besides the vigorous practices three to four times a week, the girls held fundraisers, sent notes of encouragement, led devotions, and organized parties for their team members. In turn, the coaches and players were very appreciative of their enthusiasm and the dedication they showed throughout the year.

The cheerleaders' theme verse was I Thess. 5:11: "Therefore encourage one another and build up one another . . ." Tami Parker, the football cheerleading captain said, "I think one of the greatest things about cheerleading at Northwestern is the closeness. It is hard to blend with so many different personalities, and it is neat to see how everything comes together when we put ourselves aside, really care about others, and put God first."

Jim Anderson played the lead role, with Mark Gullickson as the centurion and Lisa Nagell as Mary Magdalene.

Fun Freezes

This year's Sno-Daze weekend was marked by low temperatures and not very much snow. Because of the bitter wind chill, outdoor activities such as snow sculpturing and tobogganing were cancelled in favor of an indoor beach party.

During the preceding week, students dressed creatively, with themes such as "Lumberjack Day" and "White Day."

The Student Missionary Fellowship actively worked to increase awareness of mission needs around the world. Throughout the year, they kept students posted about people in need of prayer and how to pray for them. They also brought special speakers to some of their weekly meetings.

Again, Friday chapels featured SMF offerings to support summer missionaries from NWC. SMF members were encouraged to see that the total giving was considerably more than that of last year.

Political Awareness Comes to NWC

Getting involved in studies and activities often prevented students from keeping up-to-date with the news. However, with this year being an election year, it was crucial that students be informed. Senior Lisa Nagell saw this need and formed an organization that did just that — kept the student body aware.

Their major task consisted of monitoring the news and, specifically, the presidential campaign. They put cards on cafeteria tables that contained timely information and registered approximately 300 people to vote.

Across the Border

Although Northwestern has had many foreign students, this year initiated the first International Student Fellowship, organized by Kathy Erickson, Verna Halvorson, and Naomi Okayama.

The criteria for being a member was to have been born or raised in a foreign country. This included both foreign students and children of missionaries.

The organization provided fellowship and encouragement for its members. Their activities consisted of a dinner meeting each month and a social activity each quarter.

There were many few faces in this year's ensembles, especially in Abundant Joy. With the exception of two, all of its members were Freshmen. Adoration and Women's Handbell Choir had a few more returning members.

All ensemble members put in late hours and hard work. They toured locally as well as a few weekend tours. They were well received on the engagements.

■ 1. Handbell Choir: J. Davies, D. Wright, Q. Korporeal, G. Haagenson, A. Bartel, P. Miller, J. Reinhold, V. Johnson, R. Mattfield, Director Lorida Johnson. ■ 2. Women's Quartet: M. Baron, V. On Track

A new format of more contemporary music was begun. On Track, a half hour of interviews and Christian contemporary music was added.

A Christmas giveaway was well received. One caller per day was given a prize.

This year, WVOE had a new student manager, Carlton Anderson, replacing Jeff Creed who was manager for the past few years.

■ 1. Dale Helm finding out why the thing won't work! ■ 2. Jim Anderson and Jeff Dutton in the record library.

Eagle Gets Facelift

Returning to an eight-page, magazine-like format, Eagle editor Martin Brown introduced major changes in the school newspaper. Instead of using last year's version of a larger and longer paper, he aimed to produce shorter issues more often, keeping the news more current.

The main emphasis was on hard news stories, featuring many national articles and cartoons from the College Press Service.

Rolling Out the Scroll

When considering the numerous school activities, this year's Scroll staff was kept busy trying to sufficiently cover them all. With a change in publishers, there were new adjustments that had to be considered. Sometimes sacrificing precious hours of sleep was needed to meet their dreaded deadlines.

California Bound

The Northwestern College Choir had extra incentive this year as they practiced: a two-week tour in California. Usually the choir takes only a couple of weekend tours, so this year's tour was a special event.

The 54-voice choir began the year with a retreat to get to know each other and begin practicing. In November they performed in a special Fine Arts concert with choirs from three other colleges.

In celebration of Bach's 300th birthday, they sang a motet in chapel. The 38-page piece demanded weeks of learning and memorization.

New Chorale

Welcoming Elwood Johnson to the music faculty, Northwestern was able to add a new major performance group. The 36-voice women's choir gave students the freedom of signing up for one quarter at a time and did not require an audition.

The Chorale participated in the Christmas concert, singing a song which Mr. Johnson arranged.

Singing Unto the Lord

The Male Chorus put forth a great effort during the year, devoting many hours to rehearsals and to performances. As they ministered to Minnesota churches, they also blessed one another through the singing of sacred hymns. Colossians 3:16 says, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord."

Forty-one students took part in Male Chorus during the year, led by Dr. Kyle Wilson with help from pianist Lisa Goris.

Ministering Through Music

The Concert Band reached out to many souls throughout the year both on the Northwestern campus and between the Minnesota borders.

The band, under the direction of Dr. David Osterlund and Dr. Lynn Erickson, exemplified Ephesians 5:19: "Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord."

■ 1. Warren Ryd and John Hansen perform their music with precision. ■ 2. First Row: M. Skiff, J. Hedeman, C. Bixel, J. Fuller, J. Karges, R. Klebs, D. Mardock, J. Larsen, C. Bowdin Second Row: L. New R.D.'s

This year marked the arrival of two new resident directors: Jennifer Dreyer (Moyer) and Hank Ruetz (Berntsen). Jennifer was also responsible for the last wing of Hartill. This brought the Moyer residency up to a full-time job, another first for this year. Kathy Erickson continued to supervise the rest of Hartill.

Starting the year off with a retreat, the R.A.'s and R.D.'s spent the week before school started at Mr. Gunberg's cabin, along with the deans and Student Association officers. They also met for weekly and monthly meetings and planned a chapel and a social event for each quarter.

■ 1. Sharing a sundae makes it more fun for Mike Wilder and Marsha Reynen. ■ 2. Bob Johanson returns from a shopping spree to chat with Lori Clatterbuck. ■ 3. A cosy fireplace makes a dorm room a little more like home for Kent Hannestad and his little feline friend. ■ 4. It takes coordination to get ready for class in a hurry; Sue Meed has it down pat. ■ 5. Ryan Miller catches up on the news between classes. ■ 6. Taking a study break, Misty Johnson and Nancy Cavanaugh munch on goodies from the residence Open House.
